Dissertation work

Dissertation

Many students reported problems with their dissertation work which could not be completed as the lock down was suddenly announced while they were mid-way with their dissertation data collection work. It was found that many of them had collected full or partial data from the field and labs. It was decided that those who have collected data/samples may go ahead with the dissertation in consultation with their supervisors, but those who have not collected data/samples for wet lab are advised to go for secondary data and consult Dr P.R. Mondol for any further doubt besides their respective guides and also other teachers of the department. Some students wanted to change/partially modify their topics. They were advised to consult their respective supervisors and/or Dr. P. R. Mondal who is authorised to give them the necessary instructions for smooth writing of the dissertation.

The dissertation work along with other reports related to training, police and court dealings would have to be submitted after 15 days when lockdown will be over.
